Optasite adds David Ivy to its board

Telecom tower sites owner-operator Optasite has elected David Ivy, former vice chair of Crown Castle International, to its board of directors. Ivy has been involved in the tower industry for nine years, joining Crown Castle near its inception and holding numerous positions including CFO, president, and vice chairman for global mergers and acquisitions.

Optasite is a rapidly growing provider of wireless network services, including tower site acquisition and design and is actively investing in the acquisition and development of communications tower locations.
